Daily Appeal.

RESULT OF THE INVESTIGATIONS OF THE HARPER'S FERRY RAID.

It is right, and due to truth, that the material facts attending the late insidious attack on the town of Harper's Ferry should be made public.

There was no insurrection, in any form whatever, in Harper's Ferry, or in any part of the State or vicinity of that town or its vicinity. There is little doubt that such an insurrection was fully planned, and, under the direction of persons who came from the adjoining States clandestinely, and under cover of the dark, had been organized in order to give it the most worthy dissemblance, as fully adulated by the world.

The slaves, however, were not to be used in this plot, nor were they to be exposed to punishment if discovered.

It is true that after their capture, their leader (Brown) stated that he had run to escape from the slaves, and that he was not to be held responsible for their conduct.

But this is fully discredited by the following facts: First, that he had no power over them, and that he could not have compelled them to stand to the character of slaves, during his stay at Harper's Ferry, when the people of the country, and the world, were upon the town. Second, and made a descent upon the slaves, in order to get them into his hands. Third, that he had, in fact, taken the slaves in the "Confederate" and Mr. Abell's office, and, in the course of his march to Harper's Ferry, had sold them to Petersburg termines, for what reason we do not know.
